9.12 Detention Following Transfer

If the juvenile does not meet pretrial release conditions, the court must order that the juvenile be held in a detention center while awaiting trial. G.S. 7B-2204, 7B-2603(b). The court may order that the juvenile be held in a holdover facility when the juvenile is required to be in court for pretrial hearings or for trial, if the court finds that it would be inconvenient to return the juvenile to the detention center. Id. For more information about detention centers and holdover facilities, see supra § 8.6, Secure Custody.
